

F. D. R. TERMS RETENTION OF POPULAR GOVERNMENT MAJOR ISSUE OF IMPEACHMENT ELECTION CAMPAIGN

U.S. Leaders Await Conference Study Of New AAA Plans

Sec. Wallace and Chester Davis Confer With President But Announce No New Plans Were Agreed Upon at White House.

ACTION DELAYED ON PROCESS TAXES

Kansas Republican Introduces Bill To Pay "Moral Obligations" of Government to Farmers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Congressional study of five substitute AAA plans was initiated today as administration leaders awaited the counsel of 70 farm leaders called to a Friday conference.

Secretary Wallace and Chester Davis, AAA administrator, emerged from a luncheon with President Roosevelt to announce that no new plan has yet been agreed upon.

"Everything is being considered," Wallace told newsmen, adding that "we want to get the counsel of the wise leaders of agriculture."

United States attorneys were instructed tonight to defer any action in AAA cases involving impounded processing taxes pending a supreme court ruling in the rice milling case.

The AAA, in a formal statement, said it held the supreme court decision invalidating processing taxes and benefits to farmers for crop reduction did not affect marketing agreements, orders or licenses under the adjustment act.

Licenses to Continue.
The administration said field agents of the general crop and dairy section of the AAA have been notified that operations of agreements and licenses is to be continued.

The question of the marketing agreement, order and license provisions of the act, the AAA said, was not before the supreme court.

An announcement said there are in effect marketing agreements and licenses, or licenses alone, for 28 fluid milk marketing areas, in addition to those for the dry skim milk industry and the evaporated milk industry and for 12 fruit and vegetable industries. These were under the original act.

Marketing agreements and orders under the amended act are in effect for the California citrus industry and the California walnut industry, hearings on new agreements and orders have been held for the Florida celery industry, the paper-shell pecan industry, the western Washington vegetable industry.

Missing Plane, Party Are Safe in Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A transport plane containing Pilot Jack Herman and four passengers was reported safe late today in a wireless message from Nulato.

The plane had been missing since Friday. The party, including a babe in arms, left Kodiak on the Kuskokwim Friday, for Fairbanks, 520 miles away.

The Nulato message said the plane ran out of gas 20 miles from Kaitas. Herman and others snowed many miles to get a supply of gasoline sufficient to bring the plane to Nulato.

BRITISH OPERATION OF GUN FACTORIES IN U. S. REVEALED

Senate Munitions Committee Discloses English Management of Rifle Makers During War.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The virtual wartime operation of several American rifle factories by the British government, after negotiations which found J. P. Morgan sitting down with the British war council, was revealed today by the senate munitions committee.

The arms companies concerned, it was testified, were Winchester and Remington.

In addition, committee investigators disclosed that the State Department, with the 1916 election approaching, withheld from publication for three weeks a British note received in the course of the controversy over British interference with American commerce.

Evidence to this effect was brought out during the protracted sessions today, with J. P. Morgan, head of the powerful financial house, and several of the partners on the witness stand for the second consecutive day.

Heavy Losses Forecast.
Both Morgan and Thomas W. Lamont, one of his partners who bore the brunt of today's questioning, testified that important banking interests stood to lose heavily unless the contract settlements were satisfactory.

These banks, it was testified, they depended for floating a contemplated British loan of $300,000,000.

The rifle contract provided a high spot in a day which produced evidence that companies in which Morgan was interested sold the Allies $363,000,000 worth of goods before the United States entered the war. In all, as purchasing agent for the Allies, the Morgan Company engineered the purchase of $3,000,000,000 of goods for the Allies, at a commission of 30,000,000.

In the matter of rifle contracts, Morgan, on September 18, 1916, wired his British representatives to communicate to British authorities a message, which follows in part:

"Effect of any motion taken by British government, which contractors of this administration have not before the supreme court."

Postmaster General James A. Farley, who also is the democratic national chairman, presided over the big dinner tonight. Tomorrow he will address the national committee.

Party leaders contended tonight there was every indication of a harmonious meeting tomorrow. The plan was to wind up all business tomorrow and then adjourn. Whether fireworks would develop on the floor of the meeting, however, was a matter of some conjecture.

It developed today that some of the resignations of national committee members which followed the suggestion of the "President" that federal office holders and those dealing with the government directly should not hold party offices, have not yet been acted upon.

In this classification are Robert Jackson, of New Hampshire, and W. W. Julian, of Ohio, the United States treasurer. Both of their resignations remain to be accepted and their places filled.

2 Jockeys Are Freed
In Death of Woman

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 8.—(AP)—A criminal court jury tonight acquitted Walter Schaeffer of a murder charge in the death of Mrs. Eve Wilkins (Smoky) Saunders at a wild party here last October. Saunders was indicted on an accessory charge. The verdict frees him.

This classification are Robert Jackson, of New Hampshire, and W. W. Julian, of Ohio, the United States treasurer. Both of their resignations remain to be accepted and their places filled.

Already the federal government has expended more than $3,000,000 in local improvements and city department heads yesterday estimated their value on a conservative basis to be around $2,985,000.

This list includes about $1,500,000 for school improvements affecting every one of the 72 schools of the system and has been prosecuted under CWA, FEERA and WPA. This, however, does not include the $1,100,000 school construction and repair program to be prosecuted from the school's $275,000 portion of the $1,775,000 bond issue.

However, the buildings and grounds committee of the school board yesterday authorized purchase of materials.

Cobb Says: Send 'Farmers' to Macon

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

WESTWOOD, Ga., Jan. 8.—Plans for the gathering of those rebellious southern democrats in Georgia come on apace. You'll notice I said apace, not a gallop, or even a canter.

The latest word is that, to give the scene a more agrarian aspect, smitten farming groups from the north will be invited to sit in, particularly members of the American Liberty League.

You just see such horridly-handed agriculturists as Jim Cox and John J. Raskob and Uncle Andy Mellon and that outstanding Kentucky farmer, E. H. Hutton, quitting the plow for the march on Macon!

'Roosevelt Has Not Failed People,' Woodring Tells Georgia Audience

Jackson's Fight Similar to F. D. R.'s, 'Little Cabinet Member Says.'

By LEO FABRELL,
Staff Correspondent.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 8.—President Roosevelt has not failed the people of the United States and the people will not fail him in the coming campaign, Assistant Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring told a Jackson Day dinner audience here tonight.

"Andrew Jackson went through the same kind of a campaign on which the President is entering, and just as sure was Jackson successful, President Roosevelt will be successful," the "little" cabinet member told a crowd of more than 1,000 gathered at a local hotel for a rally which was featured also by the radio reception of President Roosevelt's Washington address and a speech by Kirk Suttie, of Blacksburg, newly-elected president of the Georgia Press Association.

"A little more than 100 years ago the same type of people who are today clamoring for Roosevelt's defeat because he has ruined special privilege were clamoring for the defeat of that great early exponent of the rights of the common man, Andrew Jackson."

GA. WOMAN SLAIN IN JEALOUS RAGE

Young Stenographer Is Killed in Colquitt Home by Ex-Legislator.

COLQUITT, Ga., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Charlie Mae Houston, 22, formerly young stenographer, was shot to death at 8:30 this morning, as she lay in bed and tonight W. I. Geer, 62, lawyer, former member of the state legislature and until recently, employer of Mrs. Houston, is in the Dougherty county jail at Albany charged with murder.

Vain infatuation and jealousy of attention from the pretty stenographer, received from other men is believed here to have been the motive of the shooting, which has shocked the entire county and which is the sole topic of conversation today on the streets of this little town, county seat of Miller county.

According to Deputy Sheriff B. E. Houston, Geer entered a bedroom at the home of Mrs. Nora Hatcher, where Mrs. Houston was staying, at 8:30 o'clock this morning. He slept together with Mrs. Hatcher, and Mrs. Houston.

Geer woke the two young women and then, without saying anything to either of them, fired one shot at Mrs. Houston. Mrs. Hatcher jumped from the bed and ran out of the room, followed by Geer.

Mrs. Houston, wounded, began to scream and Geer, still without a word, entered the room and fired a second shot into the body of the terrified woman and left.

Geer had fled north of Albany before he was captured. Sheriff O. F. Tarver, of Dougherty county, notified to be on the lookout for the fleeing killer, was told that Geer had been seen passing through Albany a few moments before. He immediately set chase after the fugitive and caught him on the Dawson highway, some half dozen miles north of Albany.

Geer was heavily armed when captured, but offered no resistance. Sheriff Tarver said he had two pistols and a shotgun in his possession. Geer was immediately taken to the jail at Albany. Sheriff Tarver said last night that he had been instructed by Superior Court Judge Worrell to keep Geer in the jail until further orders.

Feeling is running high here. The dead woman was a popular member of the younger social group. She worked for Geer until a few days ago. It was generally understood that she left his employ because of the infatuation the aged man had developed for her and to escape his unwelcome attentions.

Since that time Geer has made many fruitless attempts to persuade her to return to her job in his office and only this morning, less than an hour before the tragedy, he asked Louis Hatcher, father of the young woman who was with Mrs. Houston at the time of the shooting, if he might see Mrs. Houston. Hatcher said he told Geer that Mrs. Houston did not wish to see him.

4 Killed, 7 Injured In Bus-Truck Crash

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Jan. 8.—(UP)—Four persons were killed and seven injured tonight when a bus and a truck collided on a bridge on State Route 9 seven miles out of here in a dense fog and driving rain.

The dead, all passengers on the bus, were:
J. H. Martin, Marion, Ind.; Henry Muehler, Chicago; Lorraine Bryant, 23 months old, Monroe, Mich.; an unidentified woman about 65 years old.

The bus, en route from Fort Wayne to Indianapolis, was approaching the bridge slowly because of the fog and rain which made vision extremely difficult, according to the driver, Bryan Hall, Fort Wayne.

He said the truck struck the bus squarely in the side and shoved it against the bridge.

PEOPLE TO WRITE OWN CONSTITUTION COURT IS WARNED

Defi Hurlled at Jackson Day Observance Here by Senator Barkley; Radio Failure Marks Event.

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

The American people themselves will write another Constitution of their own, if necessary, was the defi hurled at the United States supreme court in Atlanta last night by Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, keynote speaker at this city's observance of Jackson Day.

The roaring words of the Kentuckian, thunderous orator of the old school, drew a storm of spontaneous approval from the 750 Atlantans, jammed elbow to elbow at the long dinner tables that reached into every corner of the hall.

It was the climax of Senator Barkley's speech and aroused his audience to a pitch that brought cries of "Go on! Go on! Don't stop!" as he attempted to close his address and make way for the speech of President Roosevelt that was being brought into the auditorium by radio from Washington. It was also Atlanta's first inkling of the administration's attitude toward the supreme court decision that two days ago wrecked the New Deal farm recovery program.

Radio Failure Marks Event.
The enthusiasm into which the senator whipped his audience served to diminish the disappointment that a few minutes later was the only gloomy note of the evening. The radio that was bringing the President's voice from Washington went dead. Led by the singing of "My Old Kentucky Home" as a tribute to Senator Barkley, voices were lifted through the auditorium as another radio was rushed into the room. The voice of the President, sounded again, checking Mrs. Lipscomb's wailing arms. The new radio was thinner in voice.

KENNESAW WORK FEARED DOOMED

Concern Over Project Caused by High Prices Asked by Landowners.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Congressional friends of the Kennesaw Mountain Memorial park project in Georgia today expressed concern lest the project be abandoned by the government because of the exorbitantly high prices landowners within the proposed park area are asking.

Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, author of the original park act enacted during the first session of the 74th congress, today asked a subcommittee of appropriations for the Department of the Interior to renew last year's appropriation of $70,000 for establishment of the park.

"While the committee agreed to my request," said Judge Tarver, "they warned me that if real estate owners of land within the park area do not come down in the prices they are asking the government to pay for the land, the committee will recommend that the entire project be abandoned."

Little Money Expended.
Judge Tarver pointed out that because of the high real estate prices being asked, little if any of the original $70,000 appropriation has been expended, and that if it is not disbursed before July 1 of this year, the beginning of the next fiscal year, it would be turned back into the treasury except for his intervention today.

Director A. B. Cammerer and other high officials of the national park service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—President Roosevelt tonight defined the impending election campaign as a fight for retention of popular government and appealed to all citizens for aid in spreading factual information to combat "an opposition bent on hiding and distorting facts."

The President addressed some 2,000 democrats who paid $50 a plate to attend the main dinner of a nation-wide celebration of Jackson Day. By radio his words were carried to an estimated quarter million party members attending similar dinners in other cities, and to millions of Americans in their homes.

"Whatever may be the platform, whoever may be the nominee of the democratic party—and I am told a convention is to be held—these momentous questions issue will be the retention of popular government—an issue fraught once more with the difficult problem of disseminating facts and yet more facts, in the face of an opposition bent on hiding and distorting facts," Mr. Roosevelt said.

The President's only reference to the sweeping setback he suffered when the supreme court killed the New Deal farm program was toward the end of the speech when he said:

"I know you will not be surprised by lack of comment on my part tonight on the decision by the supreme court two days ago. I cannot render offhand judgment without studying with the utmost care, two of the most momentous opinions ever rendered in a court."

Clark Howell Heads Jackson Day Group

S. S. PRESIDENT ADAMS, AT SEA, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The American congressional and journalistic delegation returning from the Philippine inauguration on the Dollar liner President Adams celebrated Jackson Day on the high seas today.

Clark Howell, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution, was chairman of the observance and introduced the speakers.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, democrat, Montana, compared the troublous times in America of Jackson Day with those of the present, while Senator Robert Reynolds, democrat, North Carolina, predicted Roosevelt would be regarded the greatest of the "democratic triumvirate" who battled for the underprivileged.

The congressmen and newsmen later adjourned to the cabin of Captain Harold Bauers to hear by radio the speech of President Roosevelt.

Hit-Run Auto Victim's Identity Is Sought

Apparently the victim of a hit-run driver, an unidentified white man was taken to Grady hospital early last night from Bankhead avenue, near the entrance to Madox road, suffering from a fractured skull.

He was unconscious when taken to the hospital in an ambulance, called by a pedestrian who saw the injured man lying in the street. His condition is serious.

The man was described as being about 50 years of age, five feet 10 inches tall, heavily built and weighing about 185 pounds, and with sparse, graying brown hair.

He was dressed in work clothes, and an Odd Fellow's insignia is tattooed on his right forearm. No papers or other identification were found on him, police said.

MAULDIN STAGGERED, SAYS STATE WITNESS

Former Patrolman Goes on Trial for Beer Parlor Shooting.

A succession of state witnesses testified yesterday that former Patrolman G. W. Mauldin, on trial in Fulton superior court for assault with intent to murder L. C. Brewer, was "under the influence of intoxicants" the night Brewer was wounded in a Fair street beer parlor.

Mauldin has entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of shooting Brewer.

Assistant Solicitor Quincy Arnold, prosecuting Mauldin, rested the state's case yesterday afternoon after nearly a dozen witnesses had told details of the scene in the beer parlor where Brewer was shot in the leg and of a previous encounter between the two in another cafe.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, weak and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more powerful movement does not get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. See.

ed to the stand today as a defense witness.

Brewer was a state witness yesterday afternoon and related what he could remember of the affair.

He said he was drinking at the time and could not remember what the conversation was between himself and Mauldin on the night of the shooting, July 24. He said he recalled seeing the policeman, dressed in overalls, at a cafe on Pryor street and later saw Mauldin again at the beer parlor on Fair street. He recollected the two talked, but said he only remembered Mauldin shot him in the right leg after searching him to see if he, Brewer, carried a pistol. He declared he was not armed.

Assistant Chief A. J. Holcombe, Captain Neal Ellis and Lieutenant W. S. Hardy testified that Mauldin was drinking at the time and "acted wildly and talked at random." Chief Holcombe said he saw Mauldin stagger as he walked, but the other two police officers asserted, on cross-examination, they did not see the former patrolman stagger.

Officer Quoted.

Pete and George Botasaris, workers at the beer parlor on Fair street, said Mauldin and several others were together in the place when Brewer came in just before Mauldin prepared to leave, after drinking some beer and wine.

They quoted Mauldin as saying to Brewer: "You think you are smart, don't you? and they other two police officers replied, "No, I'm not smart."

The overall-attired officer, who was off duty, then said, "I'm going to lock you up," according to the Botasaris brothers. Brewer started to leave the place, and at this point Mauldin searched him for a pistol and told him to sit down.

A scuffle resulted when the policeman attempted to make Brewer sit in a chair. During the scuffle, Brewer was shot in the leg by a pistol held by Mauldin, they testified.

His Drinking Theory.

Attorney Garland in his cross-examination of witnesses, attempted to show that no one could swear Mauldin was drunk.

It was said he will seek to establish self-defense today when he puts up his witnesses.

Judge John D. Humphries, who is presiding, administered verbal chastisement to Garland several times during the first day of the trial. The defense lawyer objected to many questions by Solicitor Arnold and argued the officer was not locked up, but was instructed not to discuss the case in any way. The trial will probably be concluded this afternoon.

Brewer Still in Jail.

Brewer, who has been held in Fulton (over as a material witness, was ordered released yesterday by the judge, but as other charges were pending against him, Deputy Sheriff George H. Moore ordered him held under $500 bond, which he was unable to make.

The Mauldin trial was postponed several times because Brewer failed to show up on trial dates. Judge Virgil B. Moore ordered him held under $500 bond, which he was unable to make.

He was already in jail, however, having been arrested on a charge of being drunk, he admitted to court yesterday. He said he could not remember where he was arrested nor by whom. The drunk charge was later dismissed in recorder's court. Captain Ellis said he is also charged with "suspicion of robbery."

BRITISH OPERATIONS DISCLOSED IN PROBE

believed unfair and arbitrary, would, in our judgment, be far-reaching, and might go so far as to affect adversely and seriously further British financial operations in this country, as well as to lead other manufacturers of munitions, etc., to seek to protect themselves in future negotiations by demanding higher prices and generally imposing onerous conditions.

In other words, if military munitions were to proceed with these cancellations strictly in accordance with contract terms and without regard to the rights claimed by the contractor, a situation would arise where the British government would lose more in the long run than it would gain by effecting these cancellations.

Stephen Rauschenbush, committee investigator, who conducted the examination of Morgan and Lamont, contended this amounted to "threat" to the British that unless the rifle contracts were satisfactorily settled, support for the coming loan would be withdrawn.

Neither Morgan nor Lamont would agree absolutely, but readily conceded the importance of the rifle contracts to the successful flotation of the loan.

"The financial interest at the moment was the important thing," said Morgan, "but the moral interest, the 'the' with a small 't'."

"We weren't advising Great Britain to do anything they shouldn't do," said Lamont. "We told them that if they wanted to go on, they would have to satisfy the financial community they were going to deal fairly with the rifle manufacturers."

Senator Clark, democrat, Missouri, a committee member, spoke of "coercion," but the two bankers were quick to demur.

On the second day, the committee, seeking to trace the effect of war loans to allied nations on America's later entry into the conflict, had an array of witnesses, including Rauschenbush and attorneys seated before it.

The diminutive and energetic Lamont was the principal target of the day's interrogation. He was quick to answer questions and eager to dispute interpretations drawn from letters and cablegrams of the time by Rauschenbush, who conducted the examination.

Verbal Barrage.

In fact, the hearing developed early into a running verbal encounter between the two which Morgan sitting next to Lamont seemed to enjoy hugely. The financier, to all outward appearances, was making a tremendously good time of this battle of wits and his usually somewhat cloistered life.

He laughed and chuckled and once turned ponderously to favor his partner with a broad wink. Later, howling with laughter, he said he was not disputing an involved technical point, his interest apparently wandered. The head of the great house of Morgan & Co. said:

"Are we neglecting you, Mr. Morgan?" Rauschenbush asked.

"Why, no, sir," he replied, and then regaining his composure, he added with a chuckle: "I don't feel it in the least."

Again when the Morgan contention that German submarines, not bank loans to the allies brought America into the war, raised by Lamont, Rauschenbush referred to a "personal statement" on the subject issued yesterday by Morgan.

Crowd Laughs.

"By the way, Mr. Morgan," he asked, "did you write that yourself?"

The small crowd roared, Morgan laughing with them.

"I certainly did," he boomed. "I don't like public statements without my own signature on them."

From the State Department files, Rauschenbush late in the day read the record of the British note, disclosure of which it was testified, was withheld until after the 1916 elections. It was handed to Ambassador Page at London October 10; cable to Washington October 11; text mailed, Arrington October 12; announcement of receipt October 25, with on word of contents until publication on November 14.

and around Cairo has been estimated by responsible quarters at between 300 and 500 airplanes.

The exchange also gives the British an additional 10,000 tons of fighting stores in the Mediterranean, not counting the strength of the 21st destroyer flotilla, which is accompanying four large ships on what was provisionally called the "spring cruise."

This cruise will not go to the Mediterranean, but the Mediterranean fleet this year will not join in the usual Atlantic maneuvers.

The cruise begins January 13 and gets fresh ships to the vicinity of Gibraltar well before the 20th, when the council meets. Among ships going to Gibraltar are the battleships Nelson and Rodney, among the world's most formidable warcraft, and the only ones in the British navy carrying nine 16-inch guns, in addition to lesser armament.

The battle-cruiser Hood and the battleship Ramillies, recalled to England, will give their crews shore leave. They were rushed to Gibraltar in mid-September during the height of the pre-war alarm.

ITALY'S "WAR-QUEEN" CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

ROME, Jan. 8.—(AP)—War cast its somber reflection today over the national celebration of the 63rd birthday of Italy's "war queen."

Loyal subjects throughout the kingdom displayed flags and bunting. But, following the example of the queen herself, they held their celebrations to the sobriety required by the Ethiopian war and the League of Nations' economic siege.

The queen's anniversary came as Italian fascist sources stated Premier Mussolini might send 100,000 more troops to East Africa to strengthen his invading forces. They are organized in five new divisions, it was said.

Queen Elena spent the day at the Quirinale palace. There she received the homage of her royal consort and their children.

She became crown princess of Italy in October, 1896, when her husband, now King Victor Emmanuel, was prince of Piemonte.

The queen—thought of by Italians as the "war-time queen"—ascended the national throne with her husband in 1900 immediately after the assassination of King Humbert I.

Battle of Alienists in Prospect In Sterilization Suit of Heiress

New Jersey Hospital Physician Declares Girl Was Perfectly Normal in All Respects Last November After Undergoing Sanity Test.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A battle of alienists appeared in prospect tonight in Ann Cooper Hewitt's $500,000 sterilization suit against her social prominent mother, Mrs. Marian Hewitt McCarter.

A New Jersey physician for a hospital for the insane and a nurse voiced opinions contrary to the mother's contention that the 21-year-old heiress to a fortune estimated as high as $10,000,000 was mentally subnormal and possibly subject to difficulties unless restrained by the surgeon's knife.

Authorities continued investigating legal aspects of the operation by which the girl allegedly was made barren 11 months before she became of age and began receiving about $1,500 a month income in her own name.

District Attorney Matthew A. Brady said he still was unprepared to make a definite statement on the case but reiterated it doubtless would go before the grand jury.

At Hackensack, N. J., William V. Brellin, attorney for Mrs. McCarter, issued a statement defending the mother's relations with her daughter.

He said Mrs. McCarter "is certain that when she disclosed the trust condition of Ann during the last 21 years and what she has sacrificed for the safety and welfare and happiness of the child, her course of conduct would have been judged as only what a mother would do for a daughter to whom she has been devoted."

He said Mrs. McCarter had successfully defended her daughter against charges of illegitimacy, despite the fact that "if the child were found to be illegitimate, she would receive the entire income from the trust fund instead of receiving only a portion."

Motorists are urged not to "step on it" when driving on the streets and highways of Georgia.

Every tag buyer in Georgia receives, together with his license plate, a booklet entitled "We Drivers." This booklet, issued by the General Motors Corporation, puts the responsibility of safe driving directly up to the motorist.

Chapters deal with the various physical conditions met with by motorists. They include curves and turns, night driving, mist and fog, brakes, driving on hills, power and speed, slippery weather, city traffic and country driving. But every one of these physical elements is related to the person at the steering wheel and need for wisdom and care on the part of the driver in dealing with each.

Prepare for Emergency.

The Safety Council of the Constitution sincerely hopes that every one of its 100,000 safe driving pledge signers and all other motorists of the state will read the booklet from cover to cover and be prepared for the possibility of an emergency which is always ahead.

gate of $100,000 on war risk insurance policies, have been disposed of in the United States district court in Atlanta since the first of the year, it was announced yesterday by A. Sidney Camp, assistant United States attorney, who handles the government's end of the war risk litigation. Forty-eight cases are still left on the docket of the federal court and will be disposed of at the rate of one a day until all are wiped off the calendar some time in February, Mr. Camp said.

The suits involve demands for government payment on insurance policies sustained by the veterans during their service overseas. The government maintains that no payment should be made on insurance policies where it can be proved that the veteran has been able to support himself in civil life after his discharge from government hospitals. These suits do not involve compensation for injuries, which has been paid in all cases. They are handled strictly as insurance companies handle all efforts to collect on disability clauses. Cases so far disposed of, all of which have resulted in victories for the government, either through withdrawal of the suits or through demurrers, were filed by Major M. Payne, Julian L. Hickson, Daniel W. Liddell, William N. Hule, Starke E. Brave, John O. Owen, Cecil V. Whiddon, James Luke, Wilson C. Brown Jr. and Augustus F. Burbage.

12 MILLION EXPENDED ON FEDERAL PROJECTS

for start on the $300,000 repair program already set up as a part of the latter list. Materials for Commercial High school, on which work already has been begun, and for Moreland Avenue and Kirkwood schools were authorized by the committee, and other steps were taken to expedite work on the entire list. The committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, clipped red tape and notified local WPA executives that any projects on which WPA can proceed will be given the right of way.

Included among the other major outlays by the various federal agencies here and for which the city provided only a fraction of the cost were improvements which city department heads estimated cost at least the following:

Parks, $300,000; streets, $200,000; sewers, $300,000, including about $100,000 worth of work already done by Fulton county; Candler field, $250,000; municipal auditorium, $200,000; Grady hospital, $150,000; Carnegie library, $70,000; Battle Hill sanitarium, $75,000.

More Work Planned.
This list does not include about $500,000 worth of work which will be done from the $105,993 carried in the mayor and administration recommendations if mayor and council approve that program.

Neither is the $5,000,000 sewer modernization program included in the estimates. Atlanta is to provide $1,500,000 for the sewer program, and William A. Hansell, assistant chief of construction, announced yesterday that just as soon as the inclement weather breaks he has been assured that WPA will place hundreds of men at work on that sewer lines and keep them there until the program is completed.

Atlanta has received large benefits from the outlay of federal funds, it was pointed out yesterday. The value of city properties has been increased many hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the life of certain properties has been lengthened by urgently needed repairs, which the city could not afford to make and preserve the credit of the municipality.

Mayor Key and administration leaders generally have insisted that the city provide funds for materials for the federal undertakings wherever possible in order that Atlanta would not lose the benefit of the available improvements with so little cash outlay.

KENNESAW PROJECT IS FEARED DOOMED

ice also appeared before the subcommittee today to explain the failure of the service to begin the acquisition of land for establishment of the park. They, too, warned that if land prices were not lowered the project would be in serious danger of being abandoned.

The park service officials told the committee that prices of land now being asked by some of the land owners "are prohibitive and far above their actual market value, and that unless the owners of these lands see proper to reduce largely the prices at which they are being offered to the government it will be impossible to proceed with establishment of the park."

The subcommittee evidenced some reluctance to continue the $70,000 appropriation, but Judge Tarver insisted that an additional year should be permitted within which a further effort might be made to secure the necessary lands within the limits of the appropriation. At the insistence of Judge Tarver, a member of the full appropriations committee, the subcommittee finally agreed to include in the interior department appropriation bill an extension of the availability of the $70,000 for another fiscal year. Members of the subcommittee, however, strongly intimated that unless sufficient interest by landowners was manifested to justify the feeling that necessary lands can be secured at reasonable prices the project undoubtedly would be finally abandoned.

Representative Tarver explained that to his knowledge the Kennesaw mountain project was the only one of its kind in the country where the government was expressly authorized by law to purchase land for park development. In all other cases, he said, all necessary land was donated to the government.

Section Creating Park.
Section 2 of the act creating the park reads as follows:

"That the secretary of the interior, and he is hereby authorized, to accept donations of lands, interest in land, buildings, structures, and other property within the boundaries of said national battlefield park as determined and fixed hereunder, the title and evidence of title to land purchased to be satisfactory to the secretary of the interior; provided, that under such funds available when purchasable at prices deemed by him reasonable, otherwise by condemnation under the provisions of the act of August 1, 1888, such tracts of land within the said national battlefield park as may be necessary for the completion of thereof."

SCOUTERS INSTALL OFFICERS FOR 1936

J. Roy Almand To Head Organization; Rev. Quick Delivers Address.

Scouters' Club of Atlanta installed J. Roy Almand as president for the coming year at its meeting last night. Dr. Sterling G. Brinkley, Emory University professor, is the retiring president.

The Rev. E. B. Quick, head of young people Christian education activities in four southern states, delivered the main address of the meeting on the possibilities and responsibilities of a scoutmaster.

Other officers serving with Almand include J. W. Lee, vice president; C. H. Weston, field scout executive of the Atlanta council, led in a discussion on the new Scout recruit. Other officers serving with Almand include J. W. Lee, vice president; Freeman E. Self, secretary, and Ed Epstein, treasurer. Also present at the meeting last night was Graham Green, past president of the club.

Mrs. Hutcheson, who died Monday at a private hospital, was active in social and church affairs. She was a member of a prominent Georgia family.

CONGRESS SENATORS DIVIDED ON SALARIES

Publication of Incomes in Higher Brackets May Be Discontinued.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Sentiment was divided among members of congress today on a proposal to bring a "zone of your business" sign on corporation salary lists submitted under the 1934 revenue act.

The discussion started with the widespread publicity given corporation salaries above $15,000 annually through salary lists submitted to congress by the treasury.

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, has introduced a resolution calling for repeal of the section which permits publicity. He said so long as income tax payments are no longer made public he saw no reason why salaries should be public property.

But Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, sponsor of the publicity section, said he would oppose its repeal.

"If salary lists are not made public," McKellar argued, "there are some corporations which would have a tendency to make large reductions from salaries and thus avoid payments of taxes."

Speaker Byrns indicated he believed a report submitted to congress was a public document and the people had a right to examine it.

"I do not, however," said Byrns, "see any particular benefit resulting from making the salary lists public unless it gives small stockholders an opportunity to see how much money is paid each year to top officials of corporations."

Minority Leader Snell said he was not aware the revenue act called for publication of the lists and had given no thought to possible repeal of the publicity provision.

Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee, said he was "not responsible for what was put in by the senate," adding he did "not see any useful service which publication of the salary lists perform."

Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, ranking minority member of the committee, said he had "never been favorable to publication of private affairs including tax returns."

"At the same time," Treadway continued, "I have always been against excessive salaries. It seems to me when a corporation is willing to pay in the neighborhood of the salary of the President of the United States ($75,000) they should be able to hire almost anyone."

Treadway said, on the whole, he believed publication of salaries useless and that they should remain confidential "unless there is a specific inquiry regarding a salary involving some crookedness or scandal."

Representative Caroline O'Day, democrat, New York, suggested the lists might be made public by merely listing names of corporation employees receiving over $15,000 annually, without revealing the exact amount, warning that publicity was "a great temptation to blackmailers, racketeers and other people of that type."

Doughton said he has received several telegrams of protests against the publication. He added the wording of the telegrams, in most instances, was identical.

Congress, after much debate last year, repealed the "pink slip" provision of the income tax law which permitted publication of tax returns.

MRS. J. J. FAIN, 92, DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

Mrs. J. J. Fain, 92, a resident of Atlanta for more than 40 years, and wife of a late Fulton county deputy sheriff, died at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home, 464 Copenhill avenue.

Mrs. Fain lived at that address with Mrs. W. D. Bell, a niece, and Mrs. Bell and was the wife of the late J. J. Fain, a Fulton county deputy sheriff, who died 17 years ago.

She was a native of Newnan, Ga., and before her marriage was Miss Martha Frances Stamps. She was active in Methodist church affairs.

A son, C. Leek Fain, a daughter, Miss Bertha Fain, two grandsons, C. Leek Fain Jr. and Lieutenant Jack Fain, of Vicksburg, Miss., and a great granddaughter, Catherine Fain, survive.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole, with the Rev. C. B. McDougal officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

SEABORN OTIS BROCK HIT-RUN VICTIM IN N. O.

Seaborn Otis Brock, 52, former Atlantan, was killed last Thursday when he was struck by a hit-run motorist in New Orleans, where he had lived for several years.

Brock formerly operated a machine shop in Atlanta and is survived by a son, S. O. Brock Jr., of New Orleans; a daughter, Miss Aldine Brock, of Houston, Texas; his mother, Mrs. W. C. Brock, of Monroe, and four brothers, Lamar, Joe, Ernest and Edward Brock, all of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, eastern standard time, in Rose Hill cemetery, Windsor.

MRS. W. R. FOOTE, 79, PASSES IN DECATUR

Mrs. W. R. Foote, 79, a resident of Decatur for more than 20 years and active in church affairs, died last night at her home, 239 Kings highway, Decatur.

Mrs. Foote was the wife of the late Rev. W. R. Foote, Methodist minister, and is survived by a son, Walter W. Foote. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the First Methodist church, with Dr. Andrew Sled and the Rev. Walt Holcomb officiating. Burial will be in Milledgeville, Ga., under direction of A. S. Turner.

SOUTH SIDE SENATE WILL MEET TONIGHT

The South Side Senate, a newly organized group of young people working for the betterment of their community, will hold its first meeting of the new year at the Trinity Avenue Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Several new members will be accepted into the organization. Officers were installed at the last meeting, with R. B. Giles, attorney, as installer. He and W. T. Har- claus, president of the South Side Civic Federation, were the principal speakers of the evening. Officers installed were Russell Barnett, president; Judy White, first vice president; Mildred Thaxton, secretary, and Charles Priles, publicity chairman.

Following the debate, a banquet was given in honor of the officers and their parents.

Two to Make a Bargain

It takes the combined efforts of Business and Banks to carry on the activities that create prosperity. As far-sighted business men plan new programs that employ men and move more goods, the banks stand ready to provide the needed money. The First National is ready not only to make sound loans, but also to cooperate in the development of business in this section.

2 Things to Do TO EASE COLD INSTANTLY

Discomfort and Aches Go Almost Instantly This Way

1. Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN Tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN Tablets in ¼ glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat ravages and soothes instantly.

THE pictured directions above show perhaps the quickest, simplest and most modern method yet discovered to combat cold and sore throat.

Your own doctor will approve this way. Millions of people have discarded "cold killers" and patent nostrums for this modern way. It relieves the average cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Note that all you do is this. Two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a full glass of water.

Three Bayer Aspirin tablets, crushed and dissolved in ¼ glass of water as a gargle. Gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back to permit this medicated gargle to reach the irritated membranes of the throat.

The Bayer Aspirin you take internally acts to fight a cold almost instantly. AND—eases the aches and pains that accompany most colds.

The gargle acts instantly like a local anesthetic to soothe pains in the throat and to ease throat irritation.

Try this way. You will be amazed at how quickly you can ease a cold. Be sure, though, to get Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN tablets. They dissolve almost instantly in the stomach. Hence start working almost instantly. And also, dissolve thoroughly enough in water for use as a gargle.

BRUNO REQUESTS RIGHT TO ANSWER IN COURT

Hoffman Expresses Doubt He 'Will Be Permitted To Appear.'

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 8.—(P)—Governor Harold G. Hoffman said tonight Bruno Richard Hauptmann had requested an opportunity to appear personally before the court of pardons Saturday "to answer all questions."

The Governor said the request was unusual, and expressed doubt Hauptmann would be permitted to appear. He said he would discuss the matter with Chancellor Luther A. Campbell, the state's highest judicial officer and member of the pardons court. The letter, dated January 3, and in Hauptmann's own handwriting, was sent the Governor through C. Lloyd Fisher, defense attorney.

It said: "I would like an opportunity to appear before the honorable board of pardons when they consider my case, and be given a chance to answer all questions the court may care to ask me."

END OF FLOOD RAINS PROMISED FOR TODAY

before and the waters lack two feet of overflowing into Bolton road. The river continues to rise at that point. At West Point, Ga., the Chattahoochee is expected to reach its 19-foot flood stage early this morning. From Rome came reports that the Oostanaula was rapidly nearing its 27-foot flood stage, which means an overflow over the main highway from Rome to Chattahoochee at Dry creek, just outside Rome.

From Athens, in northeast Georgia, came reports of the continued rise of the Oconee river. From Macon, in middle Georgia, and Albany, in southwest Georgia, came similar reports of rising rivers.

Ground in and near Atlanta, reduced to the softness of a sponge by the steady fall of rain, snow and sleet for 10 days, is steadily increasing the damage to telephone and electric power lines as work continues night and day to repair the more serious damages caused by the ice storm.

Poles weakened by the weight of ice and the winds topple here and there as the soft soil refuses to grip them any longer. Trees that survived the ice storm, but left standing at unnatural angles are toppling over, particularly in northwest and north Atlanta, along roads where wealthy homes have long been beautified by the splendor of their woodland settings.

Practically all the roads that interconnect north Fulton county, including trees and to the wreckage of telephone and electric power systems. Gregory C. Bowden, district manager of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, announced late yesterday that while every available crew of linemen worked at top speed yesterday restoring service to 1,000 homes, the falling trees and poles and wires penetrated by the persistent rains brought in 900 fresh cases of disaster.

Wire System to Be Rebuilt. "The rains practically nullify all the progress we are making," said Mr. Bowden. "All we can do now is to make temporary repairs with the hope of getting all telephones in working order. As soon as the weather clears for a few days and we have all these temporary repairs made, we will have to start in and practically rebuild the entire wire system of the telephone company in and around Atlanta."

"The ground is in such a soggy condition from these rains that the only thing holding up our telephone poles today are the cables and wires. On tall pine, toppling over on a line, can wreck a row of telephone poles as though they were ninespins."

Power company officials reported that there still are a few thousand homes without lights, most of them having been in darkness for 10 days. Clients are showing remarkable patience, both utility companies report. People seem to understand the problems of the linemen and fewer complaints are being received today than would be occasioned by an average summer lightning storm.

Alabama's Evacuate. A bulletin warning residents of lowlands along the Alabama river to move livestock and to prepare to evacuate their homes was issued by the United States Weather Bureau at Montgomery. A stage of 45 feet, 15 feet above flood levels, was forecast there after gates were opened at Jordan dam, on one of the Alabama's tributary streams.

Already 50 families had been moved from north Montgomery to a transient camp on higher ground.

Along the lower reaches of the Alabama, highway patrolmen and members of the state highway maintenance crews were dispatched by Governor Bibb Graves to warn residents to protect livestock and to prepare to evacuate.

A torrential downpour during the day in middle Alabama, which the Alabama river traverses, added to fears of flood damage. Between 7 o'clock yesterday 1.72 inches of rain fell at Montgomery.

Stages forecast for central Alabama included 45 feet at Montgomery, against a flood stage of 30; 37 at Selma, with flood stage 35; 45 at

Heavy Rains Swell Chattahoochee River Over Banks

"River, stay 'way from my door" is the plea of families forced to abandon their homes along the lowlands bordering the Chattahoochee from Lumpkin county to West Point, Ga. The scene above shows a railroad trestle of the N. C. & St. L. near Bolton as the swollen river spread over its banks. Rainless weather is promised for today, but the burden of yesterday's rains will just be moving downstream today. More rains may bring real disaster. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Public Service Official Blood Donor 10th Time

Ben T. Huie, member of the Georgia Public Service Commission, became a blood donor for the tenth time yesterday.

The commissioner donated the blood for Mrs. L. A. Geiger, of McRae, Ga., a friend of Mrs. Eva Drew, secretary to Governor Talmadge, who is a patient in Wesley Memorial hospital.

Although unacquainted with the patient, the commissioner donated the blood for transfusion at the request of Mrs. Drew.

Giving the blood without cost, Huie said, "I don't think it would be right to charge for what God gave me free."

His blood is of a type that matches many transfusion requirements, and his donation yesterday made the tenth time he has aided patients.

Mrs. Geiger was reported in an improved condition following the transfusion.

Miller's Ferry, with flood and danger levels at 37.

Governor Graves, who was chief executive in 1929 when floods ravaged the southern half of the state with millions in damage, kept in close touch with conditions to "prevent a repetition of 1929."

Many other streams in Alabama, including the Coosa, Tombigbee, Warrior and Cahaba, were out of their banks, but damage was slight and danger regarded as small.

In extreme southern Alabama, the Pea, Choctawhatchee and Escambia rivers were either receding or rapidly approaching a crest not regarded as dangerous, although above flood levels.

At Caryville, Fla., however, the Choctawhatchee was far out of its banks, with a reading of 13.7 against a flood stage of 12 feet. A further rise might bring serious conditions, observers feared.

Tennessee River Rises. Through Tennessee and northern Alabama, the Tennessee river was either above or rapidly approaching a crest slightly over the 30-foot flood level was forecast, with 26 feet in prospect for Gunterville, Ala., where the river is in flood at 25 feet.

Delay to Tennessee Valley Authority work at Pickwick dam, in Tennessee, and Wheeler dam, in Alabama, was feared from the rise.

In North Carolina the Roanoke river flooded the boiler room of the Roanoke Textile Mill No. 1 at Roanoke Rapids, forcing suspension of operations.

Main highways over the southeastern sector of the nation were still open, but many side roads were already impassable.

Along the Mississippi, residents welcomed a rise at Memphis from 5.1 to 6.3 feet. Navigation on the big stream has been handicapped recently by extreme low water. No flood is in prospect there.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. SPEILBERGER

Funeral services for Mrs. Jacob Spielberger, of 438 Washington street, S. W., a resident of Atlanta for 35 years, were held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence, with Rabbi Harry H. Epstein and Cantor M. Landman officiating. Burial was in Greenwood cemetery, with Sam E. Greenberg & Company in charge.

Mrs. Spielberger died Tuesday afternoon at a private hospital. She had been in failing health for some time, but was seriously ill only a few weeks.

MRS. T. S. MOISE RITES HELD IN MONTGOMERY Final rites for Mrs. T. S. Moise, former Savannah resident and wife of the late T. S. Moise, general manager of the Central of Georgia railroad, were held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Montgomery, with burial in a Montgomery cemetery.

Mrs. Moise died Monday at the home of a son, T. S. Moise, of Bangor, Maine. She was well known in Atlanta and is survived by two children who reside here, Mrs. Sara M. Burroughs and E. Warren Moise.

Besides these two children and Dr. Moise, a daughter, Miss Mary Moise, of New Haven, survives.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR CRASH VICTIMS

Funeral services for two victims of automobile crashes were held yesterday. Rites for James Frank Wilson Jr., 9, who was fatally injured Sunday in a train-auto crash near McDonough, were held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Dr. Ellis A. Fuller and E. M. Altman officiated, and burial was in West View cemetery. The boy was instantly killed when a car driven by his grandmother struck a freight train at a grade crossing.

Final rites for Mrs. Mattie Winn Oliver, of Athens, who was fatally injured Sunday when she was struck by a bit-run motorist on Ponce de Leon avenue, were held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Macon, with burial in Macon cemetery.

Artificial Leg Yields Gun When Searched

The finding of a .45-caliber automatic, concealed in the artificial leg of a turnkey, was revealed yesterday by Turnkey T. J. Avery, of Atlanta police.

According to the turnkey, the weapon was found in the leg of Fred New, of Miami, arrested Tuesday night on suspicion by Detective Lieutenant C. B. McCarty.

The weapon was discovered when the turnkey searched the suspect, in accordance with orders to strip all prisoners and search them thoroughly.

'Round, 'Round and 'Round Again, Where It's Going, Nobody Knows

"The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round" and Atlanta radio station operators and managers are likewise going around and around—and around. The nice lady who answers the phone at station WGST says "hello" pleasantly enough.

"Have you got a recording of 'The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round'?" we asked.

A feeble gasp issued from the receiver. "Yes, but . . ."

"Be calm now," we soothed. "This is The Constitution. We are just calling around and around to find out how many requests come from around and around Atlanta each day for the song entitled 'The Music Goes . . .'"

"I know," she interposed. "Don't say it again. We have about as many requests as there are people around Atlanta. We are fighting to get things under control, but it has us going around and—good-bye, please."

S. A. Clatter, manager of station WGST, answered the phone with the proud voice of a conqueror. "We looked around and around—" that is, we looked around—for some means of overcoming the great odds against us," he said. "We had reached the point of desperation when some clear-headed helper, whom we suspect of not spending much time at the station, came through with the idea of devoting a 15-minute program to that particular piece each night."

"You understand. We place the disk on the turntable and the record goes around and around and the music waits a minute, I feel better now."

"The most popular recording is by Tom Darcy and his Clamshell Serenades," he declared. "I've been in radio work a good while, but this is the most popular insanity I have ever seen displayed by the public."

"Only one dissenting voice has been heard. Sunday afternoon a woman called in and very seriously offered us $50 if we would broadcast all the records we have and promise not to buy any more."

"It was a real Andrew Jackson speech, courageous and militant."

Representative Rich, republican, Pennsylvania: "Mr. Roosevelt at the 500-plate Jackson Day depression banquet has had a change of heart, caused no doubt temporarily by the decision of the supreme court—when he proposed a presidential toast to the federal union. It must be preserved—I wonder how long it will last."

Representative Mapes, republican, Michigan: "Mr. Roosevelt's assumption, when he contrasted his administration with that of Andrew Jackson, reminds one of the 'Me and Gott' combination of any politician."

Governor Curley, of Massachusetts: "A constructive, courageous, fighting message that appeals victory."

Secretary Wallace: "It carried a great message of hope and cheer. The President made it clear the government is interested in the welfare of the farm people."

Chairman O'Connor, democrat, New York, of the house rules committee: "It evidenced the determination of the democratic party to continue to help the farmer in spite of 12 supreme courts."

Representative Boland, democrat, Pennsylvania, the majority whip: "The highlight of the speech was the President's expressed determination to exert all his constitutional rights to aid the farmer."

Representative Martin, of Massachusetts, assistant republican leader: "It was the usual political speech. The President apparently believes the New Deal needs a little oxygen."

RFC Chairman Jesse Jones: "Splendid and powerful portrayal of the issues."

Senator Gore, democrat, Oklahoma: "It was the right thing for the President to set the pace; as for me, I will go as far as anybody to follow the principles of Andrew Jackson and I won't retreat."

Representative Maverick, democrat, Texas: "This speech was better than the last one and I didn't think that could be any better."

Senator Stetson, republican, Oregon: "The conspicuous thing about this administration is that it has been silent with respect to every effort that has been made to promote popular government."

J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency: "A challenge to the nation."

Senator Lewis, democrat, Illinois: "I regard it as the President's second speech addressed to the multitude to meet misrepresentation and vilification."

Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee: "It was the greatest kind of a fighting speech—the kind the democrats and the country need."

Representative Taber, republican, New York: "I wonder what the ordinary man whose liberty and opportunities to make something for himself this man has tried so hard to destroy will think of this latest piece of demagoguery."

Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada: "He spoke right from the heart."

Senator Connally, democrat, Texas: "He talked like he was afraid to say something," Talmadge commented. "Like he wanted to compare himself to Andrew Jackson and he knew he couldn't do it."

Mrs. Susie T. Moore, of Tifton, Georgia national committeewoman, attended the dinner and described the President's speech as "wonderful."

"It was just fine. I had an enjoyable evening."

Mrs. Moore, appointed committeewoman by the Talmadge-controlled Georgia state executive committee, was accompanied to the dinner by Zack Craver, Georgia game and fish commissioner.

RICHARDSON IS SEEN AS TATUM SUCCESSOR

Election of Joe L. Richardson, chief deputy clerk for more than four years, to succeed the late City Clerk J. Henson Tatum at today's adjourned council session was forecast yesterday at the city hall.

The Monday meeting of council was adjourned to hold the election, and friends of Richardson yesterday asserted he will have a clear majority of the votes of council on roll call today. There were sporadic reports of other candidates during the day, but no one had announced definitely in opposition.

If Richardson is elected, Tatum's office force will be kept intact. The council session will be held at 8 o'clock.

Following the meeting, Mayor Pro Tem Ellis B. Barrett will name a special council committee of five members to investigate charges of incompetency and corruption in the police department. Mayor Key has significant intention of approving an ordinance calling for the probe, and Barrett will select the personnel of the committee in order that it can begin its work as soon as is practicable.

Mrs. Elsas Strives To Organize Blind Symphony in New York

By Sally Forth.

SALLY counts Mrs. Louis Elsas, a former Atlantan residing in New York, as one of the most worth-while women she knows. This tribute is justified by Mrs. Elsas' work with the blind musicians in the metropolis. With Dr. Henry Hadley, the former Atlantan gives the majority of her time toward helping the sightless to help themselves. Sally recalls that when Mrs. Elsas lived here she was uniting in her work for the blind. Her interest and sympathy for those without sight were continued when she established residence in New York, where she found a broader field for this humane and worthy work.

Being an accomplished musician herself, it is only natural that Mrs. Elsas should concentrate her efforts toward helping the countless number of blind musicians residing in New York. Through her influence she persuaded celebrated instructors to give free lessons to these sightless but gifted people. This is a much harder task than it sounds, but so earnest and so persuasive are Mrs. Elsas' pleas for those denied their sight that she is seldom refused her requests. Sally hears that Mrs. Elsas' courage is undaunted and that she refuses to recognize such a thing as failure when she sets out upon a mission which will perhaps mean light to some blind soul. It is her ambition, so the writer of this column is told, to organize a symphony orchestra composed entirely of blind musicians. All glory to this former Atlantan of whom the whole city is proud. May this new year bring her ambition, for which she is so earnestly striving, to a glorious realization!

Mrs. Elsas returns Friday to New York, where she occupies a penthouse on Sixty-sixth street, after spending the holidays here with Mrs. Herbert Elsas. She was accompanied here by her daughter, Emily, who has returned to the metropolis to resume her architectural studies at Columbia University. During their visit here they were honor guests at a number of informal social affairs, including a tea at which Mrs. John K. Ottley Sr. entertained a group of close friends yesterday.

JUST when Atlanta's telephone facilities were at their worst during the recent storm, an attractive Atlanta belle was awakened by the persistent ring of her telephone bell. She dragged herself, half asleep, to the instrument, and was told that she was speaking to the service department of the telephone company. Any other time she might have been skeptical, but knowing that the company was really working night and day, she was eager to help in any way possible. "Will you please whistle into the mouthpiece?" the polite voice asked. She wasn't much at whistling, but, being very eager to lend her assistance to the heroic linemen, and thinking they were testing the volume, she bashfully said, "I'll do my best," and let out an unearthly trill. To her dismay, the voice answered, "That's fine. I'll send you the bird seed in the morning."

My Day
By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8.—Needless to say, the big thing in the past 24 hours has been the supreme court decision. I thought it was going to be the budget, but that has been completely overshadowed.

It seemed to me that after a long afternoon of reading and re-reading and trying to thoroughly digest legal opinions we would have a rather quiet and subdued swim at 6 o'clock.

One of our sons who was still home, a young friend of his, and one of the men who had been working with my husband, all appeared with me at the pool.

My husband was already in the water and when I reached the door I dropped my wrapper, plunged into the water and, swimming about very quietly, I inquired hesitatingly how they all were feeling.

My complete surprise, instead of either discouragement or even annoyance, I was told that everyone was feeling fine, and on that note we finished our swim. Then we went up to dress for dinner and the family met again at the dinner-table. No guests were present.

I prepared for some candid opinions on current events. Instead, I found that we were discussing history.

My memory for dates is extremely bad, but between us we settled the dates of the Dark Ages, the Middle Ages, the Renaissance and how long the Holy Roman empire remained a reality, and when it continued in name, but was merely a figment of the imagination.

Then we took up what happened in different countries during the Renaissance, and reluctantly we got up from the table at 9:15. We still violently discussed the history of the past at a time when I imagine most supper or dinner tables, which gave any thought at all to questions of government, discussed those of the present day.

My husband plunged into work on a speech and I went off to work on an article. Midnight came and bed for all and all that was said was, "Goodnight, sleep well, pleasant dreams."

With the new day comes new strength and new thoughts.

Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM.

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—New factors developed today to prolong the advance in the stock market after heavy profit-taking operations had started to take their toll.

Sharp rises in rails, utilities and industrials on Monday and Tuesday and in the first hour or two today had led to some safety selling. The market developed among the jubilant speculators who considered it wise to convert paper profits into cash.

Then just as the market started to show nervousness, announcement came out of Texas that the Sun Oil Company had increased the price of east Texas crude by 15 cents a barrel. This started a demonstration in oil shares, which gained fractions to more than two points in the final half hour, and resulted in an improved tone in the entire list.

The Dow-Jones railroad average made a new high since 1934 at 42.55 and a utility average a new high since 1933 at 51.05. Each was down considerably from the day's high. The industrial average jumped 1.24 to 146.16. Among the gains, 1935 Allied Chemical, up 7.34 at 170.34, and Du Pont, up 4.12 at 142.12.

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR HENRY A. MARTIN

Funeral services for Henry A. Martin, 66, retired pioneer retail furniture dealer, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the chapel of A. C. Hemperley & Sons.

The Rev. Thomas E. Hill and Horace Dunn will officiate, and burial will be in Greensboro, Ga.

Mr. Martin, who lived at 305 East North Main street, College Park, died Tuesday night at a private hospital. He operated furniture stores in Atlanta and Fulton county until his retirement five years ago, establishing his first store when he came here as a young man from Greene county, Georgia.

He was a Baptist and a member of Battle Hill lodge, F. & A. M.

REV. W. R. SPEIGHTS IS LAID TO LAST REST

Final rites for the Rev. William R. Speights, well-known Baptist minister, who died Tuesday at his home, 2 Richmond avenue, Lakewood Heights, were held at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at the Salvation Army hall, Lakewood.

The Rev. A. L. Flury and Captain Robbins, of the Salvation Army, officiated. Burial was in Roseland Park cemetery, with Awtry & Lowndes in charge.

The Rev. Speights had been a resident of Atlanta for 45 years and was 70 years of age at the time of his death. He had been active in Salvation Army affairs for a number of years.

POLICE PENSION BOARD TURNS DOWN MORRIS

Former Patrolman, Who Killed Superior Officer, Held Not Eligible, Despite Service.

The police pension board yesterday informally decided no pension is due W. T. Morris, who served more than 25 years in the department before the fatal shooting of Lieutenant J. W. Barfield sent Morris to the chain gang for a life term.

Once before, in 1931, soon after Barfield was killed, the pension board denied Morris a pension, and the board met yesterday when there were reports that Morris planned a second attempt to obtain a pension.

Assistant City Attorney Bond Almand told members of the board Morris would have to be a member of the police department in good standing when the petition is filed and acted upon. He recited a supreme court decision to bolster his opinion. The board concurred.

Morris was freed from his life term by order of Governor Talmadge on December 23, last. Ill health and his previous good record obtained his release.

Members of the board at the present time are Assistant Chief of Police A. Lamar Poole, in charge of detectives; L. E. Satterfield, chairman; W. E. Eddleman, Henry Kennedy, city treasurer, and B. Graham West, city controller.

The board notified members of the police department that an election for three trustees, whose terms expire, will be held on February 4 in the department and those wishing to offer must file their intentions seven days before election date. Terms of Poole, Satterfield and Eddleman expire.

SISTER DOYLE DIES

Passes at St. Joseph's After Long Illness.

Sister Mary de Sales Doyle, 79, member of the Order of Sisters of Mercy, died yesterday morning at St. Joseph's infirmary following a long illness.

She was a member of a prominent Savannah family, taught music at St. Vincent Academy, Savannah, for 25 years. She was formerly known to many Atlanta friends as Miss Fannie Doyle, daughter of James Doyle, pioneer Savannah resident.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 8:30 o'clock at the chapel of St. Joseph's infirmary, with the Rev. Father James Reilly officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery, with Sam R. Greenberg & Company in charge. Two nieces, Miss Mae MacDonald and Miss Margaret MacDonald, survive.

Camp Urges Education of Masses
For Building of 'True Democracy'

Education of the masses for the attainment of a true democracy, in which every man has a chance and knows that he has it, was advocated by United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp in an address yesterday before the fifth district division of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mr. Camp spoke at a morning meeting at the Bess Junior High school, answering the question: "Shall we educate for a democracy?" The topic assigned to him in the organization's discussion through this year of "Education in a Changing Civilization."

"True democracy," said Mr. Camp, "provides itself with real leaders, not limited by rank or birth or wealth or poverty. It opens the way for each individual to rise to a place of honor and influence by the expression of his best and highest self. It provides a ladder of education and opportunity that the humblest may rise to the very top if he is capable and worthy."

"Jealousy of power honestly gained and justly exercised, envy of attainment or of position, are characteristics of the mob, not of the people; of a democracy which is false, not a democracy which is true."

The false and the true, "False democracy shouts: 'Every man down to the level of the average'."

"True democracy cries: 'All men up to the height of their fullest capacities for service and achievement'."

"True democracy creates leadership by its confidence and trust, and follows it. False democracy decries leaders and exalts demagogues."

"True democracy is the best form of government ever conceived by the mind of man, not because it is perfect, but because it can be made as perfect as the people. It is the people's government and it reflects the virtue and intelligence of the people. As the people progress in virtue and intelligence, the government progresses. It will never be entirely free from faults because it must be administered by human beings and imperfection must always be expected in the work of human hands and minds."

Struggles recounted.

Mr. Camp recounted the struggles of the United States to demonstrate to a watching world that government of the people by the people is the best form of government and emphasized that the weaknesses that cause doubts at certain stages of the country's history

BUSINESS METHODS OF U. S. ATTACKED

Supreme Court, in TVA Decision, Must Indict Industry, Writer Says.

When the supreme court hands down a decision on the TVA, as it is almost certain to do at its present sitting, it must indict American business methods no matter which way it decides, is the belief of Rupert B. Vance, sociologist and economist at the University of North Carolina, and author of "Human Geography of the South," widely heralded sociological survey of the south.

In his article, "TVA and Southern Utilities," the fifth release of "The South Today," which will appear in The Constitution Sunday, Dr. Vance shows that it will be impossible for the court to do otherwise. For, Professor Vance demonstrates, any decision must be an indictment of a planned economy that leaves little room for profits, or an indictment of American business that leaves no room for planned social development. "American business might ask itself," continues Dr. Vance, "if it really would be to its own advantage to prove that it tolerates no social planning, no matter how beneficial."

The question which must be answered before the problems posed by TVA can be solved, Dr. Vance believes, is whether in our American system a regional industry can exist half public servant and half profit-seeking enterprise. This enigma he attacks in a scholarly and entertaining manner and arrives at several inspiring conclusions.

FIRST ACTION IS TAKEN TO RECOVER AAA TAXES

Bakers Petition for Reimbursement of Levies Paid Since July 3.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The first action was taken in federal court today in what is reported to be a coming legal battle to recover millions of dollars of federal processing taxes collected by the government under the invalidated Agricultural Adjustment Act.

It was taken in a suit by two Indiana bakers petitioning for reimbursement of all taxes paid since July 3, 1935, at the rate of $1.38 per barrel of flour.

The plaintiffs are Alfred Eades, of Evansville, Ind., and Ralph A. Vetter, of Kendallville, Ind., who trade as the Vetter Baking Company of Kendallville.

They asked leave to intervene in the suit filed July 3 by the Standard Milling Company to restrain the collector of internal revenue from collecting processing taxes. Eades said the recovery of $1,725 on 1,250 barrels of flour, and Vetter asks $96.60 on 70 barrels.

On July 3, when Standard filed its action, the milling company obtained a temporary restraining order which provided the amount of the taxes should be paid over to the clerk of federal court and held in escrow pending final decision of the AAA.

A score of similar actions in the New York southern district court has created a fund of over $4,000,000 now in the hands of the court.

Eades and Vetter, as interveners, ask that part of the money paid to Standard Milling by them in the direct purchase of flour.

Intervene for All.

They stated in their petition that they belonged to a class of bakers "so numerous as to make it impracticable to bring them all before the court," and asked the right to "intervene for and on their own behalf for and in behalf of others in like situation with themselves."

At Washington, it was stated that an estimated $150,000,000 have been paid in escrow to federal courts by manufacturers and millers using basic agricultural products, pending determination of the AAA's validity under the constitution.

Here, it is reported that several large food manufacturers who have paid millions in processing taxes since 1933 plan to institute suits next month to recover their money. It has been unofficially estimated that $1,000,000,000 of taxes have been collected since 1933. Most of this is not recoverable, however, since processors must prove they absorbed the tax themselves and did not pass it on.

They stated in their petition that they belonged to a class of bakers "so numerous as to make it impracticable to bring them all before the court," and asked the right to "intervene for and on their own behalf for and in behalf of others in like situation with themselves."

At Washington, it was stated that an estimated $150,000,000 have been paid in escrow to federal courts by manufacturers and millers using basic agricultural products, pending determination of the AAA's validity under the constitution.

Here, it is reported that several large food manufacturers who have paid millions in processing taxes since 1933 plan to institute suits next month to recover their money. It has been unofficially estimated that $1,000,000,000 of taxes have been collected since 1933. Most of this is not recoverable, however, since processors must prove they absorbed the tax themselves and did not pass it on.

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

Try Double-Mellow Old Golds on this amazing offer

LAST OCTOBER, smokers sat up and rubbed their eyes, as they read the Double-Money-Back offer on Double-Mellow Old Golds. No such offer had ever before been made on a cigarette.

But Lorillard knew what it was doing. In all its 175 years of experience, it had never seen finer tobaccos than the prize crops in Double-Mellow Old Golds. "Such tobacco," said Lorillard, "will justify any guarantee."

Results have proved this so. In every section of the country, smokers are swinging over to this double-mellow cigarette...and staying with it.

Maybe your taste will prove our Waterloo. In that case you get double your money back.

JUST DO THIS: Take a sporting chance on a pack of Double-Mellow Old Golds. Smoke ten of the cigarettes. If it's not the finest cigarette you ever tasted, mail us the remaining smokes and the wrapper, at any time before May 1st, 1936, and we'll send you DOUBLE the price you paid, plus postage.

FLUSH OUT
15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of power and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 2 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.
